

Friday 10th October - Science homework

In science we have been learning about the habitats where animals live. We know that the habitats have to provide the animals with everything they need to survive. This week we would like you to draw the habitats that the animals below would live in. Please also label the habitat telling us what you have included. You could also challenge yourself to write about how the animal is adapted to live in the habitat. For example polar bears have thick, white fur to survive in the cold polar habitat.

Spelling

Each week will list the spellings we have been working on in class. The children can choose 5 words to practice from the list below. They can do rainbow writing or write each word 3 times.
